Non-Members — $440

Target Audience

Home Health Clinicians (RNs and LPNs); Home Health Non-Clinician Coders; Billers; Quality Assurance Staff; Clinical Administrators

Materials

Handouts will be made available prior to the conference. Attendees will be required to have a 2021 ICD-10-CM coding manual, as interactive coding scenarios will be an integral part of the learning experience.

Program Objectives

ICD-10 Coding to meet PDGM requirements is challenging as errors will affect acceptance of claims and ultimately reimbursement. ICD-10 Coding requirements change on an annual basis and to be compliant, Coders and Clinicians need to remain updated on the new rules for accurate and proficient coding. Join Jennifer Warfield, BSN, HCS-D, COS-C as she presents very hands-on information on coding guidelines specific to home health and walks attendees through scenarios designed to assist the coder in making the correct code selection and apply the applicable rules.

- Part 1—Tuesday, February 23, 9 a.m.—Noon CST
 - * Identify and list noteworthy or changed codes, conventions and guidelines for 2021
 - * Recognize acceptable PDGM primary diagnosis codes, questionable Encounter Codes, and proper sequencing in PDGM
- Part 2—Thursday, February 25, 9 a.m.—Noon CST
 - * Discuss and practice coding Infectious and Parasitic Diseases
 - * Discuss and practice coding chronic conditions: Diabetes, Neoplasm, Circulatory and Respiratory diagnoses
- Part 3—Tuesday, March 2, 9 a.m.—Noon CST
 - * Discuss and practice coding mental and nervous conditions
 - * Discuss and practice coding GU and GU diagnoses and Signs and Symptoms
 - * Discuss and practice coding Musculoskeletal diagnoses and Signs and Symptoms
- Part 4—Thursday, March 4, 9 a.m.—Noon CST
 - * Discuss and practice coding T codes, S codes and Z codes.
